SAMUEL AYERS,

FORMERLY OF DANVILLE, KENTUCKY.

WATCH MAKER,

Successor to B. F. MEEK, Main Street, Frankfort, Ky., continues the watch repairing business at the old stand. He promises and careful work he hopes to have his watches repaired without damage being done them. Surveyors' compasses, sextants and other instruments requiring delicate and accurate adjustment.

In retiring from business I take pleasure in expressing my entire confidence in Mr. F. Ayers, and from my long acquaintance with him as a workman, do not hesitate to commend him as every way capable of meeting the expectation of my former patrons.

Mary's Lamb on a New Principle.

Mollie had a little run as black as a rubber shoe, And everywhere that Mollie went, he emigrated too.

He went with her to church one day—the folks hilarious grew To see him walk demurely into Deacon Allen's pew.

The Deacon quickly let his angry passions rise, And gave it an unchristian kick between the red brown eyes.

This led rammy in the aisle; the Deacon followed fast, And raised his foot against; alas! that first kick was his last.

For Mr. Sheep walked slowly back, about a rod 'tis said, And ere the Deacon could retreat he stood him on his head.

The congregation then arose and went for that there sheep, But several well-directed Butts just pilled them in a heap.

Then rushed they straightway for the door with curses long and loud, While rammy struck the hindmost man and shoved him through the crowd.

The Minister had often heard that kindness would subdue The fiercest lion, "Ah!" he said, "I'll try that game on you."

And so he kindly, gently called, "Come, rammy, To see the folks abuse you so, I grieved and sorry am."

With kind and gentle words he came from that tall pulpit down, Saying, "Rammy, rammy ram—best sheep in all the town."

The ram quite dropped it's humble air, and rose from off its feet, And when the Parson landed he was behind the hindmost seat.

And as he shot without the door, and I closed it with a bang, He named a Culbertson town—I think 'twas "Yola Dam."

List of Gaugers Assigned.

The following are the assignments of gaugers in the 7th District, to take effect October 1st, 1882.

H. S. Banta to W. A. Gaines & Co., No. 4.

John Gaudingier, Jr., to John Cochran & Co., and J. S. Taylor.

Switzer.

Miss Emma Stone is visiting at Mrs. Pour Scott's.

Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Poplin are visiting at J. B. Hockensmith's this week.

Rev. J. D. Bolannan, of Georgetown, preached to the people of North Fork last Sunday.

Jack Frost has again visited our neighborhood. Look out, you men that have tobacco to cut.

Our little town is improving very fast of late. Mr. P. C. Smith has opened a wood and blacksmith shop here.

Mr. James Carter has improved the looks of our town very much by requiring some of his buildings. May the good work still go on.

Our farmers are quite busy preparing to sow their fall grain. Potato digging and cutting corn are two important branches of industry at this time.

Mr. B. H. McCoy, who came home from Illinois several weeks ago, on a visit, has concluded not to return but has accepted a clerkship with J. H. Switzer, in a general store at this place.

Moore, J. M. Lyon, J. C. Hopkins, Dudley Baker, and others who visited Louisville on the twelfth for the purpose of witnessing the grand turnout in that city, were well pleased with their visit. They saw many wonderful things.

One of our young men started to Church last Sunday morning, but before he had gone very far he was led to believe that he could do more good by going elsewhere, so he turned and went, as his feeling directed him, to visit a little sick friend across the way. The dear little friend has been improving ever since.

ONCE A WEEK.

Bridgeport.

Mrs. Colon Jones is quite ill. Old Uncle Winston Vaughan is very much indisposed.

Mrs. Allen Hamilton has been quite sick, but is better now.

Sorghum making is in full blast. Crop below an average.

Born.—Sept. 24th, 1882, to Ollie Scantland and wife, a son.

Sam. Parrent, who has been quite ill, is able to be out again.

Miss Alma Scofield paid a visit to friends in Louisville last week.

Miss Addie Crockett has returned from a visit to friends at Purinton.

Miss Bettie Wilson is visiting friends in Graebensburg, Shelby county.

Mrs. Henry Sargent is visiting her mother's family in Boone county.

Rev. R. F. Middleton, of this place, preached at North Benson Church last Sunday.

Mrs. Jno. Angrave has returned home after an absence of several days in Frankfort.

At the male show in this town last week Mr. Charlie Mayhall carried off the premium.

Mrs. Annie Denmore, of Louisville, is spending several weeks with friends in this section.

Mr. T. R. Parrent (Uncle Tom), of Anderson county, visited friends in this vicinity last week.

Mr. J. B. Russell and wife, and W. E. Russell took in the Louisville Exposition this week.

Mr. Jos. Parrent and wife visited their son, Mr. R. H. Parrent, and family in Shelby county last week.

Miss Lillie Russell, who has been in Woodlout county during the past week or two, has returned home.

Mr. Jas. Huppel and family, of Cincinnati, have returned home from a visit to relatives in this section.

The enlargement of the ROUNDABOUT is a source of gratification to its many readers in this section. Long may it wave.

Cot. T. B. Ford, Common School Commissioner, visited our school last Monday, in an official capacity. He reports the school in a prosperous condition.

Your type in last week's issue made us say J. H. Jenkins and wife visited friends in Woodlout, Scott and Fayette counties, when it should have been J. W. Jenkins and wife.

Belle Point.

Mr. Jas. A. Violet has moved to town. Miss Katie Graham is quite sick with cholera and fever.

Mr. T. C. Hale has laid a stone pavement in front of his residence.

Mr. Ed. Brawner, furnishes the hungry with fresh meat every morning.

Mr. S. V. Pence visited Mrs. Olliver, near Lewis Ferry, the first of the week.

Mr. Jas. D. Moore is building an addition to his residence on Kentucky avenue.

The Steamer S. V. Pence landed at our wharf Thursday morning and supplied some of our citizens with Pittsburg coal at 14 cents per bushel.

The Railroad bridge has received a new coat of red paint. Captain Hardie says he has ordered paint for the Benson bridge and will have it painted as soon as it arrives.

Miss Lizzie Thompson, who has been visiting the Misses Todd at Lake Park, returned to her home in St. Louis Thursday morning, accompanied by Miss Mattie Todd, who will remain some time.

The walk on Kentucky avenue, between Todd and Major streets, is very much out of repair. There is a town ordinance requiring owners of property to build walks in front of same and keep them in repair. The Marshal should look into this.

Mr. Wm. Conter returned Wednesday from an extended trip to the Mountains, bringing with him the skin of a rattlesnake he killed in Bath county. It measured about six feet and had nine rattles beside the button.

NEW ARRIVALS.

Box.—To Geo. Shackelford and wife, Monday, the 25th, a boy. To Augustine Robinson and wife, Wednesday, the 27th, a boy. To Major F. P. Lewis and wife, Thursday, the 28th, a girl.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky as second class mailable matter.

GEORGE A. LEWIS.

Editor and Publisher.

FRANKFORT, SEPTEMBER 30, 1882.

A blue pencil mark (X) on your paper indicates that your subscription has not been paid for some time, and you are requested to settle at once.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT, in its enlarged and improved condition, offers superior advantages to advertisers. The fall trade is just beginning to open and people from all over the county are coming into town to buy their fall goods.

Business men have an idea that because they and a few of the people here in the city know where their places of business are, everybody in the county knows. This is a mistake. There are hundreds of people throughout the country that do not know, and the only way for them to find out is through an advertisement in the paper they read.

The advantage offered by the ROUNDABOUT is its larger circulation. It claims and has a large circulation in this city and county than any other paper published. This is no idle boast but a fact that can be substantiated. This, coupled with its low advertising rates makes it the best advertising medium for Frankfort merchants published.

The most successful firms in the city are the heavy advertisers, and those who do little or no business are the ones whose names you never see in the newspapers.

These facts are offered to our business men for reflection. Judicious advertising is the road to wealth.

Death of Another Old Citizen.

Mr. John Watson, Cashier of the Deposit Bank, was taken Saturday with a severe attack of indigestion, and was confined to bed until Sunday afternoon, when he attempted to vomit in order to relieve himself of his suffering, and in the effort burst a blood vessel in his head, which caused apoplexy, from which he died at 8 o'clock that night.

His wife was in Richmond, Kentucky, visiting her mother, and knew nothing of her husband's illness until the sad intelligence of his death reached her. Three of his children were with him, however, and together with anxious friends made every effort to allay his suffering. The deceased was born in Woodford county, April 11, 1817, and consequently was 65 last April. He came to this city when very young, and after leaving school entered the office of his brother-in-law Mr. Philip Swigert, who was the Circuit Clerk of this county, where he served as deputy clerk for several years. He afterwards entered into a partnership with Messrs. Jacob and Philip Swigert, under the firm name of John Watson & Co., which firm for twenty-five years owned, built and ran a line of steamboats upon the Kentucky river, among which were the Bob, Leitcher, Blue Wing, Nos. 1 and 2, Ago, Oliver Anderson, Sylph, and Tom Metcalfe. He afterwards became the agent of the Frankfort Wooden and Cotton Mills Company, and managed the business of those institutions until 1862, when Gen. Kirby Smith's Division of the Confederate Army took possession of this city and converted $85,000 worth of jeans and linen which was stored in the warehouse of the Company, which so crippled it financially that the mills were never run again by them. In 1868, when the Deposit Bank of Frankfort was organized, he was elected Cashier, and continued in the position till the day of his death.

He was a just and correct man in all his dealings, a true friend, a kind and affectionate husband and father, and a good citizen. His loss will be greatly felt in this community. His funeral took place Tuesday morning from his late residence, the services being conducted by Rev. J. W.

Pugh, of the Presbyterian Church, of which he had been a member for a number of years.

He leaves a wife and six children—Mrs. Robert Christie, of Louisville, Mr. W. R. Watson, of Indianapolis, Indiana, Mrs. Knox Brown, of Owen county, and Messrs. H. Howe, Dudley, and Miss Lizzie Watson, of this city—to mourn his loss, who have the sympathy of the entire community in their sudden bereavement.

There was an effort made last Sunday to enforce the Sunday law, and as a consequence there were four parties before the police court, the first of the week, to answer for violating the same, but the warrants were dismissed for insufficiency of notice. If the law is a good one, why not enforce it all the time and not make episodic efforts at it. The moonshiners and others who sell on Sunday should be given to understand that they will be punished for every infraction of it, whether the Legislature is in session or not, and not make a farce of it by paying no attention to it for months, and then suddenly order the police to report all violations of it for a week or two after some one is shot down in a drunken row on Sunday. Either enforce it all the time or repeal it.

Sunday's Shooting.

About five o'clock Sunday afternoon, Kit Willis, a moonshiner, being under the influence of liquor, was standing on the pavement at the railroad depot cursing and abusing Pat Noonan, who was not present, for having made him pull down a portion of a wall at the "O. F. C." Distillery, which he had not put up properly. John Noonan (Fox), who was passing at the time, heard Willis's remarks and told him that if he had anything to say about Pat, he should go and say it to his face, and not talk behind his back. Without further provocation Willis struck at Noonan, when he was knocked down by that young man, and as he got on his feet again drew a pistol and began shooting at his assailant, who jumped out in the street and picked up a rock. The first shot went wide of the mark, and as he was firing the second time Noonan struck him with a rock, again knocking him down, and saving himself from receiving the bullet, as it also missed him and inflicting a slight flesh wound in the arm of a colored man from Woodford county, who was standing across the street. Officer Hyde then appeared on the scene and stopped further proceedings by taking Willis to jail. He waived an examining trial Monday, and was held in $50 bond to appear before Circuit Court, in default of which he was returned to jail.

Mrs. Johanna Burns, widow of the late Edward Burns, died at her residence on Broadway Tuesday night, at 10 o'clock, aged 85 years. The deceased was born in Ireland but had been a resident of this city for many years. Her funeral took place from the Catholic Church, of which she had long been a devoted member, Thursday afternoon, and her remains were followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. She was twice married and leaves two children by the first, Mrs. Dan, Meagher, sr., of this city, and Mr. Con. Ryan, of Danville, Iowa, and one by the second, Mrs. A. Fahmy, of this city.

The Lexington trotting races begin Tuesday, October 10th, and continue four days. Railroad rates have been reduced to two and a half cents per mile on all the roads running into Lexington, and an extra train will leave Lexington for Louisville on Friday evening, October 13th, after the races are over, thus giving persons from this city an opportunity to go up in the morning, attend the races and return at night. Col. R. P. Pepper's Catchfly and Cole, and Maj. H. C. McDowell's Faze and Fugue are all entered in the different events of the meeting.

Dr. Sam'l Ayres, who has succeeded Mr. B. F. Meek in the watch repairing and jewelry business, advertises in this issue that he is ready for business and invites our citizens to call and see him. He is a gentleman of long experience in the business and is highly recommended both in Danville, where he has lived the greater portion of his life, and by Mr. Meek, who has known him for years. Call and see him.

The meeting at the Baptist Church is still in progress and Rev. J. M. Weaver will remain until next week and assist the pastor, Rev. J. M. Lewis. So far there have been nineteen additions to the Church, seventeen by confession and three by letter. The congregations which attend nightly are very large and attentive.

Personal.

Miss Mamie Browder is visiting in Louisville.

Miss Emma Morris is visiting friends in Louisville.

Mr. L. W. Gore is lying very ill with little or no hope of recovery.

Mr. H. M. Buckley, of the Anderson News, was in the city Tuesday.

Miss Sasie Bash returned Tuesday from a visit to friends in Henry county.

Justice John M. Harlan left Monday afternoon to visit friends in Louisville.

Miss Florence Hyatt, of Owen county, has been visiting friends in the city this week.

Misses Dora Huffman and Annie Sheets left Saturday afternoon to visit friends in Louisville.

Miss Carrie Archer, of Madison, Indiana, is visiting the family of Mr. John L. Jones, South Side.

Mr. Ben. G. Williams returned Wednesday to the University of Virginia, where he will spend the winter.

The laying of the gas mains in South Frankfort has been pushed rapidly this week.

There will be thirteen shows at Major Opera House during October—about three a week.

Come in and pay your city taxes before Monday night, or you will be ruled out of a vote at the next city election.

Last Sunday the city was literally full of colored people in attendance upon the African M. B. Conference. We heard of only one row.

George W. Bain, Esq., of Louisville, the great temperance lecturer, will probably be the prohibition candidate for Governor of this State at the next August election.

A second hand clothing house will shortly be opened in this city, and the boys will have a chance to sell their summer overcoat and invest in a last year's slier.

Dr. Ely, of Madison, Indiana, has removed to this city with his family, and will locate for the purpose of practicing his profession. He has rented the "Orphans' Home" property on the South Side.

Now that the new gas mains are all laid on this side of the river, and the sewer repaired at the intersection of Main, it is to be hoped that St. Clair street will have a chance to settle down once more.

The Secretary of the Treasury has accepted the site selected by the Commissioners for the new Government building, and are may expect soon to see the work of tearing away the Valley Mills build to make room for it.

If there is a young man in Frankfort that wants to buy a good building lot on which to erect him a neat little cottage home, he should call at this office, for we can sell him one that will suit both his purse and taste.

Our next issue will contain a list of all the registered voters in the city who will be entitled to vote at the next city election, and it will not require so very much space to insert them either, as not more than about one hundred have registered in each ward.

Mrs. Nancy A. Hinton, widow of the late Thos. Hinton, died Sunday afternoon at her residence, near Grassy Springs Church, in Woodford county, after a lingering illness, in the 75th year of her age. The funeral took place Tuesday morning from her late residence.

On Saturday the Commonwealth and the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund entered suit against Messrs. Jones & Bowen and their securities, Messrs. G. W. Craddock, J. W. Jones, W. T. B. South, E. W. Ayres, and others, for forty thousand dollars due the State for the hire of the convicts in the penitentiary.

Too much praise cannot be given chief of police, Hyde, for the efficient manner in which he is discharging the duties of that office. The police force of Frankfort has long needed regulating, and it seems that Mr. Hyde is to be the regulator. Mr. Hyde's course is receiving the approbation of nearly all of our citizens.

Mr. Phillip Sellers has removed his watchmaking an jewelry establishment across the street from the old stand he has been occupying for the last ten years, and is now established in the room lately occupied by Mr. Thos. Holder, which has been newly fitted up and repaired for the purpose. New cases have been put in for the display of his already full stock of goods and everything is neat and inviting. Call and see him and purchase a diamond ring or set of pearls for your sweetheart.

Rev. G. O. Barnes is conducting a meeting in Melodion Hall, Cincinnati.

The South pier of the Woolen bridge is receiving some much needed repairs.

Messrs. Robert B. Franklin and W. H. Posey have formed a co-partnership in the insurance business.

The lively little Frankfort favorite, Katie Putnam, will appear at Major Opera House on the 9th of October.

Hon. W. C. Oakes has recovered sufficiently from his recent illness to be able to meet his opponent upon the stump again.

An excursion train will run from Louisville to Cincinnati tomorrow for the benefit of persons who wish to attend the Barnes meetings in that city.

Elder John I. Rodgers has been conducting a protracted meeting at the Grassy Springs Church the past two weeks and there have been fifteen additions to the Church.

The great fall opening at the Arcade will take place next Thursday. No lady should forget it, but be on hand to select her fall bonnet or purchase one of the many new dress patterns.

The Governor pardoned three colored men out of the Penitentiary Wednesday, who were sent from Kenton county on the charge of attempted rape. It is now believed that they are innocent of the crime.

The readers of the Lexington dailies are treated every day to something like this: "We are informed to-day a plan for the new court-house will not be decided upon for a week or two." Slow Lexington.

Through the influence of Senator John S. Williams, the die bills that have been held for eight months by working men for labor performed on the Kentucky river, have been ordered paid by the Secretary of War.

Farmers should be on the lookout for horse thieves. Within the last two weeks six horses have been stolen in this and adjoining counties, and it looks as though a gang of these rascals was operating in this section of the State.

At the meeting of Capital Lodge, No. 6, I. O. O. F., Monday night, the following Past Grand were elected to represent the Lodge in the Grand Lodge, which meets at Winchester on the 24th of October: E. Whitesides, Rev. J. M. Lewis, C. A. Nelson, and C. Shubinski.

It is to be regretted that so old a citizen of this city as Mr. B. F. Meek has disposed of his business here and determined to remove either to Louisville or Lexington. He has for many years been one of the prominent business men of the city, honorable, prompt, and reliable in all his dealings, and our city can ill afford to lose so valuable a citizen.

GRAND OPENING.

The ladies are especially invited to attend the grand opening of fall and winter pattern hints and bonnets at P. Newman's Millinery store, on Thursday, Oct. 5th, when all the Parisian and New York styles will be exhibited. Mrs. Maggie J. Hinton will be pleased to have all the ladies call, as she has made every effort, in selecting her stock, to please the fastidious. Ladies, call and convince yourselves.

Sept. 30 11.

The examining trial of Frank Egbert, charged with the murder of Officer Jerry Lee, was begun at the Court House Monday morning before Esquires McDonald and Bohannon. Bohannon was sworn off the bench and the case adjourned over until Tuesday for the purpose of securing another magistrate. Tuesday the court met and took a recess until 2 o'clock; at the afternoon, when Esquire S. M. Tinsley, of the Bridgeport district, was called to sit in the case with Esquire McDonald, and the examination proceeded with. The evidence was concluded yesterday, and the case continued until Monday.

Mr. John Traubel was driving a two-horse team, attached to a loaded wagon, on his farm, near this city, Wednesday morning when in going up a steep ascent the horses balked. He attempted to make them pull up the hill when they backed the wagon over a high embankment, and in the fall one of the horses' neck was broken and it killed instantly, while the other was so badly injured that it is thought will be fit for no more work should live. Mr. Traubel was in the front of the wagon and fell on one of the horses and very badly bruised up, one of his ribs being bent in. He considers himself fortunate that he escaped with his life.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY ever known for the treatment of all spavin diseases. READ PROOF BELOW. Also excellent for human flesh.

FROM COL. L. T. FOSTER.

Dr. B. J. Kendall's Spavin Cure has a very valuable recommendation that I highly prize. I have used it on the horse which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons who failed to cure him. I was once reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express. I determined at once to try it and got our druggists here to send for it. They ordered three bottles. I took them all and thought I would give them a thorough trial. I used it according to the directions. The first day the cold spavin was gone and the lumps have disappeared. I used one bottle and the cold's lumps are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles, who are now using it.

Very Respectfully, L. T. FOSTER.

ALL KINDS OF COAL ON HAND and for sale at Lowest Prices by G. B. MACKLIN.

FRANKFORT ROERDABOUT.

There will be services at the Presbyterian Church this morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. E. Power's tin and store will be connected with the Telephone Exchange today. His number will be 64.

Mr. John Meagher has purchased of Col. S. I. M. Major the building on Main street occupied by Messrs. Marshall & Meagher, for $5,500 cash.

The colored fair has been in progress in Brown's woods, near this city, this week. The attendance has been tolerably good and the animals shown up to the average. It will close this afternoon.

The teachers of the Public School were given a holiday by the Commissioners yesterday, and most of them went down to Louisville Thursday afternoon to interview the Exposition and visit friends.

We have been shown by Mr. V. Berberich, samples of engravings executed by Messrs. R. J. McFee & Co., of Cincinnati, with whom his son, Jerome, is learning the business. The work is very handsomely done and shows great skill in the art. Any of our business men desiring engravings made of their business houses or of any article which they wish to advertise, should go and examine these samples and write for prices.

On account of failing health, Mrs. S. J. Bohannon desires to close out her Custom House Bakery, on St. Clair street. This is a splendid opportunity for some young man to step into a prosperous business. The location is one of the best in the place, being where half the population of the city pass daily, and is just across the street from the site selected for the new Public Building. She will sell on reasonable terms, and some one will get a bargain.

It will be the heart of a sportsman good to take a look at the handsome display of firearms in the window of Messrs. Gray & Robinson, in Old Fellows' Temple. It contains everything from a twenty-two calibre cartridge to a three hundred dollar breech-loading shotgun, and there is nothing a hunter could wish for that is not there. The window alone contains six hundred dollars' worth of goods. They propose in future to keep complete outfits for hunters, and our sportsmen can always have their wants supplied by them at reasonable rates. Some of the best makes of revolvers will also be found there, with a full stock of ammunition to suit.

The FRANKFORT ROERDABOUT has commenced its sixth volume. Mr. Lewis has made it first-class in everything but size, and that is a defect which he can remedy whenever he gets ready. —Lexington Transcript.

The FRANKFORT ROERDABOUT has been enlarged to a five-column paper, and is much improved in appearance thereby. This evidence of its prosperity is very gratifying to us, for it was our first hope—our earliest love—and it has and will always occupy a tender place in our affections and we want to see it grow and prosper like a green bay tree. Besides these considerations, we like to see industry and pluck rewarded, and if George Lewis, the present proprietor of the ROERDABOUT, is anything he is industrious and persevering, and he richly merits success. Here's to the dear old ROERDABOUT. May she never grow old. —Anderson News.

Editor Roerdabout:

Can you or some of your readers answer the following questions:

Can a candidate for City Trustee run for the same if he has not paid his taxes at the time of the election?

Can an officer qualify and hold an office of the county who, when elected, was a delinquent in the payment of taxes? Who was the author of the bill drafted the bill allowing convicts to be hired out and worked outside of the prison walls?

Who drafted the new amendment to the city charter that was passed last winter, franchising every voter who did not pay his taxes and register sixty days before the election? *

FRANKFORT, KY., Sept. 23th, 1882.

Editor Roerdabout:

Allow me the privilege of a place in your worthy paper for the following: Next Monday is the last day you can, by paying your taxes, register so you can vote for City Trustee. I would earnestly urge every poor man and voter to at once pay his taxes and qualify himself, so he can go to the polls and rebuke the authors of this odious bill disfranchising any poor man who may not be able to pay his taxes by that time, as the authors of that bill prepared it and engineered it through the Legislature with an eye single to the disfranchisement of the poor white and colored voters of the city, a majority of whom pay their taxes during the year more promptly than some of the genlemen who were so zealous in getting this infamous clause inserted in our city charter. A MERCHANT.

Dr. Morris Evans

Has been assigned to duty by the Ky. Conference, M. E. C. S., at Frankfort, Ky. The right place, in the right place. It is well for the Methodist people of the capital city that Dr. Evans is to minister to them. They will find him one of the ablest preachers of Kentucky. He does not deal in flowers and deliriums his blood "smelt from the shoulder." He calls nice nice rates; and so on all along the line. He speaks and acts for himself, and holds Dr. Evans responsible for that Dr. Evans says and does. He says honey but he does not speak it. He reads the Bible and not commentaries to find the truth; the latter and him, do not command him. He is not only a Christian, but a polished Christian more, he is a polished Christian gentleman. He takes care of his business relations as a business man ought to—and does not find an apology for lack of attention to these secular matters by claiming an interest alone in heavenly affairs. A stranger to all policy with his vicissitudinal changes, he is straight forward in all his conduct. He brings about one of the needed women that ever graced the paragonage. —K. M. I. News.

Editor Roerdabout:

The education of youth should be regarded by all as an object which should receive their immediate and special attention. Being persuaded, as I am, and as every one who is given to thinking upon the events of the past, and what is constantly being revealed in the present, cannot fail to see that the elevation of the human mind and the proper training of the intellect is the most important of all matters, for the many evils that prevail in our as well as all other countries. While this is true, and the fact is plainly perceptible that the day is rapidly approaching, if not already upon us, that the light of knowledge will cease to rule in the capacity of placing men in power, regardless of their ability to perform the duties incumbent upon such a position; but everyone will be measured by what he knows. Therefore it behooves parents and all who feel an interest in the welfare of the present and coming generations and desire the promotion of law and order to give their utmost to any and all means which are necessary to enlighten the minds of their children, which is the surest mode of bringing them to view right, the elevated position that, through proper culture and well regulated training, their parents designed them to occupy. But in order to the accomplishment of this much desired and laudable result the efforts of both parents and teachers must be reciprocated by due diligence on the part of the pupils, for without their willing submission to a well planned discipline, coupled with diligent study, their teachers will grow gray in the service without having reaped any satisfactory results, and the expectations of parents will be a thing of the past, dwindled into insignificance, and they pass away without seeing even their faintest hopes accomplished. While I urge the education is more valuable than any other legacy that is in the power of parents to bequeath to their posterity, I would not argue that every one is endowed with the capacity of mind to elevate themselves to that lofty pinnacle of fame to which Demosthenes and Cicero were able to climb, but I am sure, with the opportunities which surround them (though not at least quality them to see clearly, the reasonable excuse for every one not being possessed of a good English education. This alone, if no better can be obtained, will give that refinement to its possessor to at least qualify them to see clearly the virtues of a character unimpaired by pernicious habits, and thereby be fraught with good results by acting as an almost insuperable barrier to the seductions of evil, affording a foundation for their tender hearts to become allied to that virtue which is characterized by amiability and true philanthropy, and qualifying it to compete with all the most noble and noble. All rational systems of morality and improvement in natural philosophy, and the use of such improvements to beneficial purposes are due to education. Emulation has been, and now is, the chief resource of man, contributing largely to his wants, enabling him to detect error and sensibly defend right. This, combined with the multitude of other advantages resulting from it all, serves to amaze me that so few seem to take a lively interest in its promotion. Even in this enlightened age some are so ignorant as to deem all human learning as entirely useless, and what is more remarkable, some who call themselves preachers of the Christian religion. To such I will only say what I heard a judicious preacher observe on a public occasion, that if all men had been as unlearned as they never could have had a text from which to preach or display their ignorance.

INVISIBLE POISON.

How it Works Its Way Into the Body and How to Counteract it

One of the great scourges of the present year in all parts of America has been malaria. This is a trouble so treacherous in its nature and so dangerous in its results as to justify cause apprehension, whenever it has appeared. But there are so many erroneous ideas upon the subject that a few words are in order at a time when people are subjected to malarial influences.

Malaria, which means simply bad air, is the common name of a class of diseases which arise from spores of decaying vegetable matter thrown off from stagnant pools or piles of vegetation undergoing decomposition. These spores when inhaled with the breath or taken into the system with water soon enter the blood, and germinating there, find a foothold whereby the whole system is poisoned, and the various functions disordered. When the germ theory of disease was first advanced it was supposed that these spores were of animal nature, and like the bacteria in diphtheria propagated in the blood, but there are now considered to be of vegetable origin, like the fungi found on decaying wood or in cellars. The source of this state of the air is generally swampy or stagnant pools, which, partially dried by the hot sun, send forth vapors loaded with this malarial poison. These vapors descend to the earth in the night, cooled by the loss of temperature, and breathed by sleepers, are readily inhaled. Hence persons living near stagnant pools, marshes are liable to be afflicted with chills and fever, and such localities are never healthy, though they are more so when the streams flowing into them are pure, and also when the water is high. Again the drainage of houses, barns, etc., are a fertile source of malaria. One will often notice in coming into the neighborhood of one of these sluggish streams that just through almost every village a most villainous smell caused by the offensive reek which communicates its bad odor to the atmosphere, especially on hot days. This also enters into the system by the lungs or taken in through water which also absorbs it from the air poisons the blood and deranges the whole system. This poison is also developed in force in wells and springs, and hence, in the same way, and the result of drinking these is the same as breathing the poisonous air. In a time of drought the great quantity of vegetation that drops up in the fields, in the fields and pastures, the corn fields and forest leaves produces the same effluvia. On the prairies when large tracts of prairie ground are turned over, the decaying vegetation is a widespread cause of malarial disease.

The evils which follow malarial poisoning are almost infinite. Disease of a malignant and dangerous nature, accompanied by symptoms the most distressing, certain to unshrink themselves, and here a burden so long as this poison remains in the system. The indications of malarial poisoning are loss of appetite, shortness of breath, pains about the heart, shivering, fever, and weakness, dizziness, nervousness, chills, sensation, unaccountable lassitude, dull pains in various parts of the body, headache, dizziness, a coated tongue and dry mouth, night sweats, muscular debility, puffing under the eyes, an unusual cold, or, sediment about the fluids passed from the system, etc. Any one of the above symptoms may be an indication of malarial poisoning in the body, and hence, it is imperative that one who has these occasional times immediate and careful attention.

But if malarial poison could not find a lodgement in the human body, it would be just as harmless as the oxygen of the air. The great difficulty is that after being absorbed into the system, it produces obstructions in the stomach and lungs, clogs the circulation of the blood, affects the kidneys, liver and other organs, and is the cause of a most dangerous character. There is only one known way by which these diseases may be avoided or cured after they have once made their appearance, and that is by keeping the great purifying organs of the body in perfect health. These organs are the kidneys and liver. No one whose kidneys or liver are in a perfect condition was ever afflicted by malarial poison. And when these organs are disordered, they not only permit, but invite these diseases to make their inroads into the body. It is now admitted by physicians, scientists and the majority of the general public that one medicine, and only one, whose power has been tested and proven, has absolute control of and keeps the kidneys and liver in constant health, and hence prevents malarial diseases. This is the famous Warner's Kidney and Liver Cure, the most popular medicine before the American people, and sold by every druggist in the land. It fully counteracts the evil effect of malarial poison in the system, and not only cures it, but restores the members which that poison has weakened. How well it does this can be learned from the following: —KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28, 1882.—Moving from the State of New York to the western country, I was attacked with malaria and general debility. I had lost all appetite, and was hardly able to move about. I had tried a great many remedies, but nothing bettered my condition until I began using Warner's Kidney and Liver Cure which seemed to help me right away, and I feel as well as I ever have in my life. It is a blessing to people who are afflicted with malaria. C. F. WILLIAM, 1412 Grand Ave., of William & Co., Hardware.

This great remedy has proven its power in innumerable cases, and is today more extensively used in malarial districts, whether in cities or in the country, than any or all others. It is a cure of the same class of disease. No one can afford to trifle with the first symptoms of malaria, but instant care should be taken to check it on the start before its evil influences overshadow the life.
